"Recensione * ""A powerful first novel....A book to change readers' eyes and hearts.""-- Pointer, Kirkus Reviews * ""Crew salutes the basic goodness of humankind which triumphs in some way even under the most inhumane circumstances.""-- Starred, School Library Journal ""A moving look at the way in which a survivor of a great tragedy, having confronted overwhelming changes in her life, faces young adulthood."" -- Publishers Weekly L'autore ""The approach I take with my writing is to have my work reflect real life, and yet be shaped into the best story possible. I feel that a powerful piece of fiction can often convey an emotional truth more compellingly than a strictly factual version.""--Linda Crew Linda Crew is a recipient of the IRA Children's Book Award and the Golden Kite Award, and her books have been named ALA Notables as well as ALA Best Books. Linda Crew didn't always have to be a writer. In fact, while attending junior high school in the early sixties, this award-winning author wanted to be a folksinger. By high school, when it had become apparent to her that she really couldn't sing, she decided to become an actress. Then, at the University of Oregon, her theatrical ambitions evaporated. At her mother's suggestion, Crew switched her major to journalism--and loved it. Crew's training was in journalism--interviewing, researching, and marketing--and she was encouraged to present the facts accurately and without fuss. But her assignments always ended up full of dialogue and she ""had this compelling urge to make a story just a little better than the way it happened."" Thus, her talent for writing fiction was born. After college, Linda Crew married her husband Herb and settled on a farm in her home state of Oregon, where the couple still resides today with their three children. Crew leads a full, busy life and admits, ""It's difficult sometimes to carve out the time for writing with so many other demands, but it's important for me to do some living. After all, what could a person possibly write about if she spent all day closeted in front of her computer?"" Book ListLong Time PassingChildren of the RiverAn ALA Best Book for Young AdultsAn IRA Children's Book AwardA Golden Kite AwardNew York Public Library Books for the Teen AgeFire on the WindMaine Student Book Award Master List 1996-1997Vermont Dorothy Canfield Fisher Book Award Master List 1996-1997Nekomah CreekAn ALA Notable Children's BookNekomah Creek ChristmasAuthor Fun FactsPrevious jobs: Florist, mail carrier, visitor center receptionist for the Forest Service at Cape PerpetuaPets: One lively black cat named GoblinFavorite hobbies?
